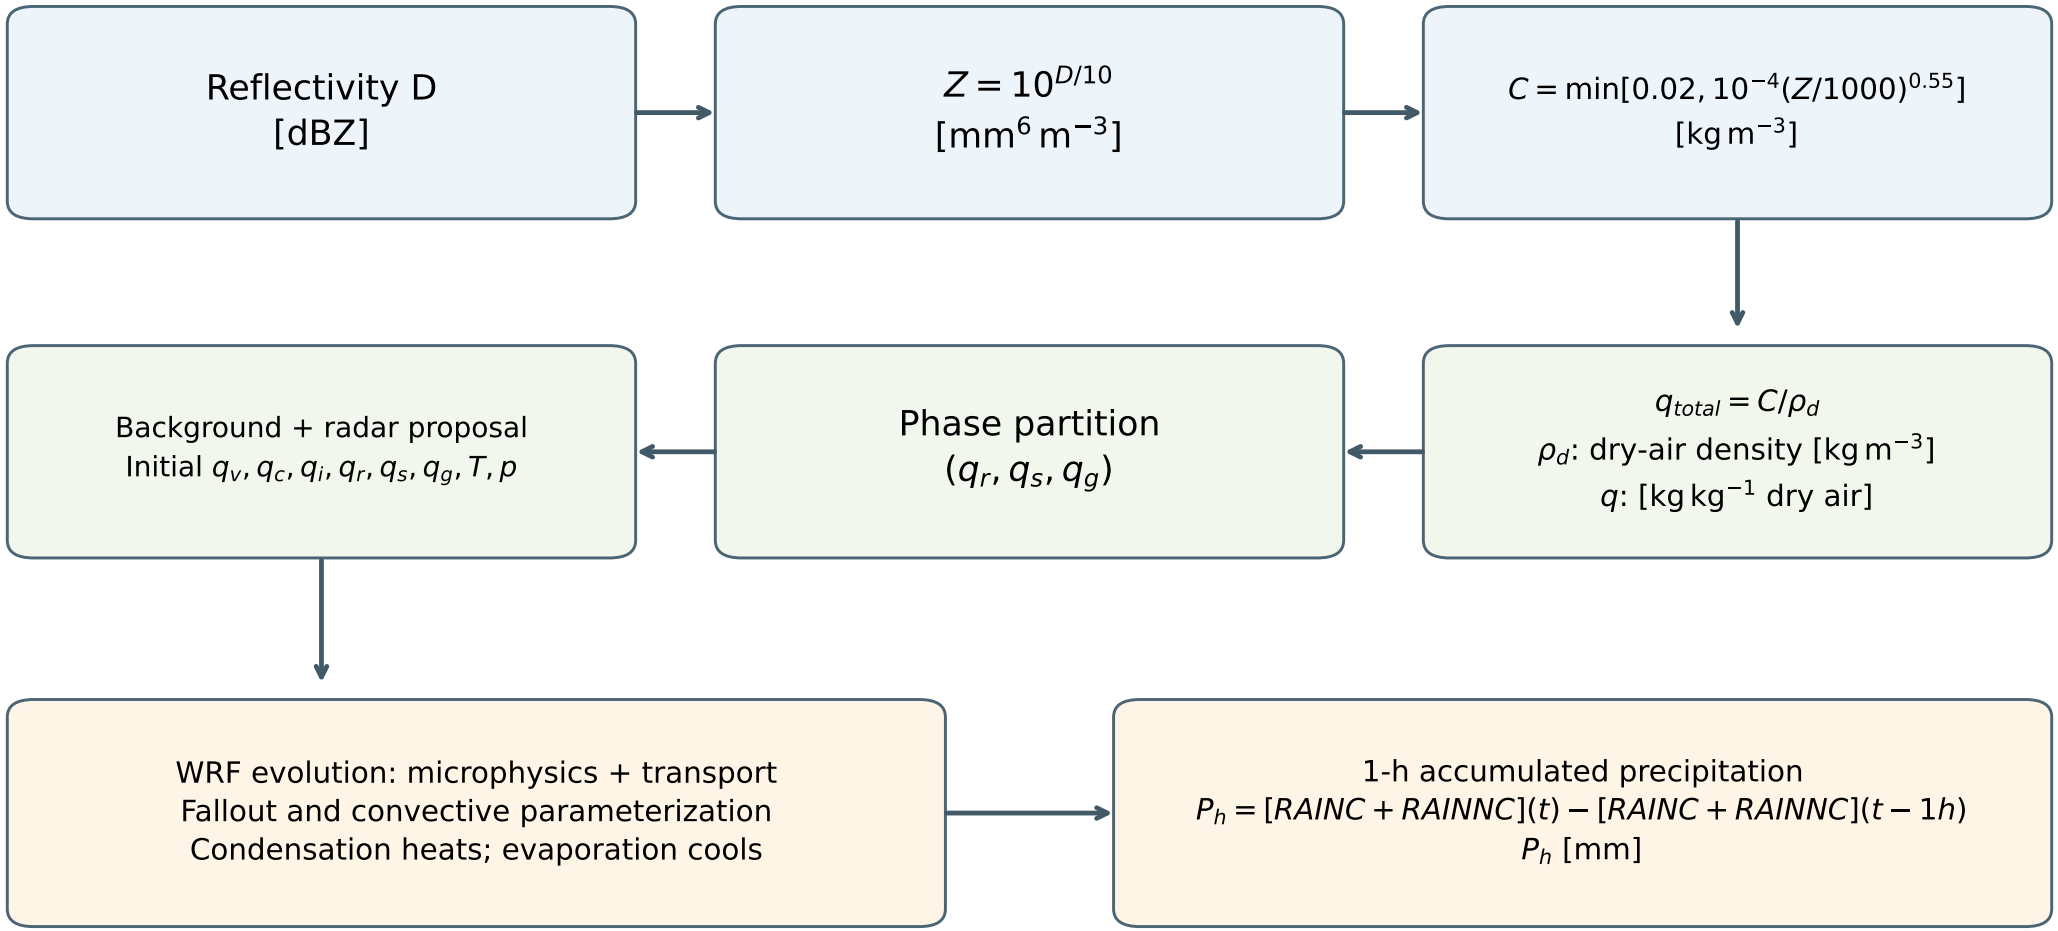
From radar reflectivity to forecast precipitation



Interpretation: reflectivity inversion is non-unique; dry-air density sets the mixing-ratio baseline.
Model transport, fallout, microphysics and convective precipitation jointly affect the result.
The diagram does not establish the cause of a forecast difference or a closed mass budget.